4.5. Definitions

- A. Academic Adjustments: Adjustments necessary to ensure students with disabilities have an equal access to educational opportunities within the provisions below<sup>1</sup>. Academic adjustments may include the provision of auxiliary aids and services (see Section 5.B.). The appropriate academic adjustments are determined based on an individualized case-by-case basis. Academic adjustments will not be granted if they would require the University to lower or modify substantially essential requirements/functions or technical standards of a course or academic program; fundamentally alter the nature of a service, program, or activity; or result in an undue financial or administrative hardship. Academic adjustments also do not include the provision of personal attendants, individually prescribed devices, readers for personal use or study, or other devices or services of a personal nature. (See Section 6.D Requesting an Accommodation below.)
- B. Auxiliary aids and services: Devices or services that enable effective communication for individuals with disabilities. Examples of auxiliary aids and services may include providing note takers, recording devices, sign language interpreters for courses; telephone handset amplifiers; equipping school computers with screen-reading, voice recognition, or other adaptive software or hardware. The appropriate auxiliary aids and services are determined on an individualized case-by-case basis. Auxiliary aids and services will not be granted if they would require the University to lower or modify substantially essential requirements/functions or technical standards of a course or academic program, fundamentally alter the nature of a service, program, or activity, or result in an undue financial or administrative burden.
- C. Disability: Federal laws, including the Americans with Disabilities Act (“ADA”), define disability as a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more of an individual’s major life activities. The New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (“NJLAD”) defines “disability” as a physical disability, infirmity, malformation, or disfigurement ~~that~~<sup>which</sup> is caused by bodily injury, birth defect, or illness including epilepsy and other seizure disorders, and which shall include, but not be limited to, any degree of paralysis, amputation, lack of physical coordination, blindness or visual impediment, deafness or hearing impediment, muteness or speech impediment, or physical reliance on a service or guide dog, wheelchair, or other remedial appliance or device, or any mental, psychological or developmental disability, including autism spectrum disorders, resulting from anatomical, psychological, physiological, or neurological conditions which prevents the normal exercise of any bodily or mental functions or is demonstrable, medically or psychologically, by accepted clinical or laboratory diagnostic techniques. Disability shall also mean Acquired Immunodeficiency Syndrome (“AIDS”) or Human Immunodeficiency Virus (“HIV”) infection. An individual is not regarded as disabled if the impairment is transitory and minor.

- D. Disability Supporting Documentation: Current medical, psychological, educational, or other relevant documentation provided by a credentialed third party that establishes an individual has a disability as defined above and demonstrates how the disability affects the individual’s ability to perform essential functions of their job or to participate in educational opportunities.<sup>1</sup>
- E. Discrimination: An intentional or unintentional act which adversely affects employment or educational opportunities on the basis of membership in one or more protected classes, including disability. Failure to provide reasonable accommodations to a qualified individual with a disability may be a form of disability discrimination, except where such reasonable accommodation would cause an undue hardship or fundamentally alter the requirements of the individual’s employment position or educational program. For additional information on prohibited discrimination and harassment, see ~~University Policy 60.1.12: Policy Prohibiting Discrimination and Harassment.~~ University Policy 60.1.12: Policy Prohibiting Discrimination and Harassment.
- F. Essential Job Functions: The fundamental, basic job duties performed in a position. A function may be essential because the position exists to perform that function; there are a limited number of employees who could perform that function; and/or the function is highly specialized, and the incumbent is hired for ~~their~~<sup>her/his</sup> special expertise or ability to perform it. Qualified employees must be able to perform the essential functions of a job as determined by the University, either with or without a reasonable accommodation.
- G. Interactive Process: An ongoing communication between the employee/student and University personnel for the express purpose of providing reasonable accommodations or academic adjustments. The interactive process is a flexible and individualized approach and often includes a review of the individual’s abilities and functional limitations (including supporting documentation). For employees seeking accommodations, the interactive process may include a review of the essential functions of the job, factors, or job tasks that may pose a difficulty, and how the individual may be accommodated without creating an undue hardship on the employer. Similarly, for students seeking accommodations, the interactive process typically involves a decision-maker at the campus working with the student to identify existing barriers to the student’s access to academic and non-academic programs and activities at the University with the intention of finding an academic adjustment or reasonable accommodation to address those limitations.
- H. Qualified: A qualified employee with a disability is one who meets the essential requirements and can perform the essential job functions of the position with or without reasonable accommodations. A qualified student with a disability is one who meets the academic and essential requirements/functions or technical standards required for admission to or participation in programs, services, or activities of the University with or without reasonable accommodations or academic adjustments.
- I. Reasonable Accommodations: Adjustments or provisions made for individuals with disabilities to provide access or to enable them to perform the essential requirements/functions or technical standards of a role. Reasonable accommodations may include adjustments necessary for applicants to receive equal access in the hiring process; or the removal of or modifications to workplace barriers in order to enable qualified individuals to perform job duties. When requesting an accommodation, an employee should propose a reasonable accommodation. For qualified students, reasonable accommodations may include adjustments to policy or procedures, practice, or programs that provide equal access to the University’s academic and non-academic programs and activities, but will not fundamentally alter the academic program or its learning outcomes.

Each accommodation request is addressed individually on a case-by-case basis.

- J. Retaliation: Any act of intimidation against individuals who, in good faith, request reasonable accommodations or academic adjustments; appeal, grieve, file, or participate in the investigation of a complaint concerning such requests; or make or participate in claims of discrimination or harassment. For additional information on prohibited retaliation, see University Policy 60.1.12: Policy Prohibiting Discrimination and Harassment.
- K. Student: Any individual currently admitted, matriculated, registered, enrolled, or participating in or auditing any course or program in any school or division of Rutgers on a full-time or part-time basis including, but not limited to, undergraduate, graduate, continuing, or professional studies. For purposes of this Policy, "Students" include: (i) visiting students; (ii) individuals who have completed the immediately preceding academic term and are eligible for re-enrollment, including the recess periods between academic terms; and (iii) individuals on approved educational leave, or other approved leave status.
- L. Undue Hardship: An action that would require significant difficulty or expense or an action that would fundamentally alter policies and procedures, the essential requirements of a job function, and/or the fundamental nature of the academic program. Undue hardship is determined on a case-by-case basis. An accommodation need not be granted where it would pose an undue hardship. In such cases, alternative reasonable accommodations or academic adjustments may be considered that would not impose an undue hardship.
- M. University Representative: Any Rutgers employee who is notified of a request for an accommodation, tasked with providing the relevant information related to the interactive process through the appropriate offices (See Section 6.D.), or responsible for implementing any and all approved reasonable accommodation(s). This may include, but is not limited to, a supervisor, faculty member, or program administrator.
- N. See University Policy 60.1.12 See University Policy 60.1.12 for additional definitions relating to discrimination, harassment, and retaliation.

5.6.

The Policy

A. The Policy

Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, is committed to maintaining an inclusive, welcoming, and accessible educational, working, and living environment for individuals of all abilities across the University. It is the policy of the University to comply with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 U.S.C. §794(b) (2) (A)); the Americans with Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C. §12131 et seq.), as enacted in 1990 and as amended by the ADA Amendments Act of 2008 (ADA Amendments Act) (Pub. L. 110-325, 122 Stat. 3553 (2008)); the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (N.J.S.A. 10:5-12) (LAD); and other applicable federal, State and local laws and regulations that prohibit discrimination on the basis of disability. It is the policy of the University that no qualified individual shall, solely by reason of disability, be denied access to, participation in, or the benefits of, any program or activity operated by the University. The University is committed to providing reasonable accommodations and academic adjustments needed to ensure qualified individuals equal access to employment, educational opportunities, programs, and activities in the most integrated setting feasible. Reasonable accommodations shall be made in a timely manner and on an individualized, case-by-case basis. The University prohibits retaliation against individuals for requesting reasonable accommodations or academic adjustments; appealing or filing complaints related to decisions concerning such requests; or making or participating in claims of discrimination or harassment.

The University's compliance with applicable disability laws is guided by the University's broader Policy Prohibiting Discrimination and Harassment (~~University Policy 60.1.12~~ University Policy 60.1.12), which provides information on prohibited discriminatory, harassing, and retaliatory conduct, as well as the resources and processes for addressing and resolving complaints of discrimination, harassment, retaliation and related violations of University policy.

B. Scope

C. Confidentiality

The nature of the concern or issue and any information obtained through the interactive process will be treated with the utmost confidentiality and with sensitivity to the issues involved. The confidentiality of information disclosed during the course of the interactive process will be respected to the extent feasible and practical and in accordance with applicable State and federal laws. This means that information received during the accommodation request process is shared only with those individuals within the University community who "need to know" in order to evaluate the individual's accommodation request or implement any approved accommodations. However, the University has a duty to respond to allegations of discrimination, harassment (including sexual harassment), and retaliation, and therefore cannot guarantee absolute confidentiality once allegations are disclosed to University officials.
