1. Policy Statement

This Policy is intended to enhance the safety of our patients, visitors, students, clinical faculty, and clinical staff and protect them from exposure to specified Communicable Infectious Diseases while at our facilities and to promote the public health of the University community. Under this Policy, immunizations for the Communicable Infectious Diseases specified in this Policy are mandatory for all Covered Individuals unless such Covered Individual is an Exempted Individual. Additionally, if appropriate, the Executive Vice President for Health Affairs may specify additional Communicable Infectious Diseases to be included under this Policy. Any Exempted Individual must wear a face mask in Patient Care Areas and as Rutgers otherwise directs. In addition to this Policy, Rutgers encourages and supports other methods for preventing the spread of Communicable Infectious Diseases, including initiatives to promote good hand hygiene, encouragement for sick co-workers to stay home, and cleaning of high-touch surfaces (for example, counters, doorknobs, light switches, handles, stair rails, elevator buttons, desks, keyboards, phones, toilets, faucets, and sinks).

2. Reason for Policy

Certain Communicable Infectious Diseases, including Seasonal Influenza, are contagious diseases, often respiratory in nature, caused by pathogens such as viruses and bacteria. These pathogens can cause mild to severe illness and lead to the hospitalization and death of many individuals each year. The most effective way to prevent infection from these pathogens is through vaccination along with everyday preventative steps such as handwashing. This Policy is intended to reduce the risk of these diseases being acquired in the University community, particularly in the University’s clinical settings, by maximizing immunization for Covered Individuals and making provisions for mandatory face mask usage for Exempted Individuals.
